

Just Trust are my 2 words (DJ). They were originally what I came up with as the answer to my son's many questions about GOD and the Bible when he was a teenager. One day I saw the words differently and made my first word art image. I turned the T's into crosses, a picture of Calvary. Since then, Just Trust has become my way of life.

“We don't know what we don't know.” It's a saying that describes our limitations as human beings. We have tried to come up with the answer for thousands of years but knowledge is not an end in itself. We will always arrive at a place where we still don't have the answer. To me, it's like Stonehenge. No matter what we do, we still don't know for sure what its meaning is. Yet, truth exists. There has to be meaning to it all. We are obviously not satisfied because we keep searching for the answer. Instead of searching for the rest of my life, I've decided to spend my time here believing in what I think is the best answer I can find out for myself. That might sound like a cop out but I beg to differ. The Bible is different than any other sacred book in history. It is the only book that GOD has claimed as His own. He did it by more than just mere words. Most sacred books claim that they are the word of GOD. But how did GOD claim that the Bible belongs to Him? Just two words ... The Cross.

The Cross is ... The Point that GOD made with His Word. The Hebrew Bible is full of amazing stories. GOD loves to teach us by telling us stories. Only GOD could come up with such an astonishing way to pull it all together!

By being crucified for the forgiveness of our sins, He demonstrated the answer to the greatest question we are all born with:

Is GOD love?

My honest belief after years of research is that Jesus Christ and Him crucified is the only answer that truly satisfies that question. It's the only answer that has held me up and carried me through life so I could face my worst fears and overcome them. That'd be the definition of sufficient courage to me. What's the worst that could happen? Bring it. My GOD is able!

“But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us.”

Romans 5:8 NIV
